I miss you so much, Jessica. Even after almost 11 years, no one could ever replace you my precious best friend. Life is simply not the same since you left. I am raising two amazing little girls and think of you so often. I know you would love them and they would have absolutely adored you. I love you and will miss you forever. Please keep guiding me.

Missing you more than ever, Jess. Not a day goes by that I don't think of you. Even the smallest things remind me of you. I hope that you're saving me a spot in Heaven. I thought that the pain of losing you would get better, but it hasn't. Miss you so much my dear friend. Love you. Jessica Proano

My heart is so touched in finding out about the recent passing of Jessica. How well I remember the times daughter Evie Breedon (now DavyRomano) spent with Jessica as good friends having met at Kendall Christian School. Many early memories of sleepovers and the warm hospitality of her family. Please accept my heartfelt condolences and may your comfort, Angie, Hani and Hani Jr., come so strongly from knowing that this separation is only temporary. I remember Jesus' words expressing that the peace He leaves is not as the world's peace...it is something far better. With love, Patricia Breedon

I am in total shock right now.....Jessica was a brilliant and beautiful person...inside and out. I knew her from the Immigrant Rights Clinic in law school and shared many many late nights working on client's cases. I send my thoughts and prayers to her family after the loss of this remarkable young woman. May she finally rest in blissful peace.

This was heartbreaking. I didn't know Jessica personally but she was a member of my law school graduating class. My condolences to her family. She was so young and still had a lot to contribute to the world.
