Danny was (and still is) my angel. He was the most funny, charismatic, caring, (sometimes) devious, lovingly sarcastic, storyteller ever. He brought light into every room, and never looked away from any eye. He was passionately honest, and always loyal. Danny taught me more about life than any other person I've known in my 38 years. He showed kindness, gratitude, determination, and most importantly, truth to every situation he (or anyone) faced. For that, he is my hero. I'll never forget the last time we saw him... as uncomfortable as he was, no matter how much I told him it was okay, he was DETERMINED to fix Scarlett's rainbow loom.. AND... (with much effort and 8-10 drill bits) HE DID. Sweet Danny. Our Angel. Scarlett and I think of you every day. You were an amazing and admired uncle, son, husband, brother, and father. WE LOVE YOU.

I will never forget that grin on his face at my rehearsal dinner (the night before my 1:00 pm wedding). He was one of the Groomsmen and he had a look of such mischief that he made me chuckle. That will be forever imprinted on my heart. He was always up for most anything, most anytime. That smile and those blue eyes!!!!
