Karen Neuwald sent a virtual gift in honor of MARIANNE.

Dear Luedeking Family, I am the daughter of Gretl Neuwald, who worked for your parents in New York. I had the pleasure of visiting your folks twice, once with my mother (we went to the Fairchild Gardens and the Everglades). My sister Bonnie and I visited again and your parents took us out to dinner. I have a lovely picture from that visit in my kitchen which I enjoy each day. I truly believe that your parents were the some of the sweetest people I have ever known. Their kindness and generosity amazed me. Your mother even sent me (and my twin-another sister) a birthday card each year. My mother exuded joy whenever she talked about them. I feel very fortunate to have shared space with them during my life. I just learned of Marianne's passing when my holiday card to her came back to me. Karen Neuwald

Dear Leudeking Family, I send you all my sincere condolences, I have just started reading the children's book that Marianne translated, and realized how long it has been since I have communicated. The internet has informed me that I am over a year late writing to you! My only excuse is that my husband Pierre was sick, and he died in December 2017. I have three grandchildren and I look forward to reading the book with them. I will be remembering my visits to your family in Miami, and even farther back, in Managua, where I sang concerts with Marianne's father in law, back in the early 70s. My very best regards to your whole family! Barbara Blanchard Hohenberg.
